

We are looking for 10 – 12 Student Assistants

for GOR 23 from 20 – 22 September 2023 at the University of Kassel!

DGOF is a professional association for digital research methods and as such connects market, social, political, and opinion researchers. Digital research ranges from the use of online-based survey methods and mobile surveys to social media and big data research. Apart from the annual international conference GOR, DGOF organizes monthly networking events, publishes its own formats (compendia, Podcast) and advocates for the interests of digital research and researchers.

Your Tasks:

- Assisting the DGOF office staff by preparing and organising the international conference General Online Research 2023 during the conference days.

Your Profile:

- Independent, structured and thorough working method
 - Reliability, flexibility, resilience and sociability
 - Sound knowledge of MS Office applications
- Good command of English (German also an advantage, but not a must)

There are two possibilities to work as a student assistant during the conference:

- Three-day commitment (approx. 30 hours with a gross salary of 350 € (lump sum))
- 10-hour commitment (usually on one day). In return, you will receive a free ticket for the rest of the conference (incl. get-together and party).

If you are interested, please send a short online application with your CV and details of your preferred assignment to:
